

MIYETTI QUARTERLY LAW REVIEW

CALL FOR SUBMISSION

INFORMATION AND COMMUNICATION TECHNOLOGY (ICT) AND NEW MEDIA LAW

Deadline – 30th January 2018

---

The Miyetti Quarterly Law Review is published by Miyetti Research and Publications Limited as a peer-reviewed journal with the aim of advancing theoretical and practical insights into legal issues arising from Nigerian Law, thereby making original contributions to legal knowledge. The articles are tailored to the Nigerian legal system with interdisciplinary law practices in focus. It also seeks to publish articles that address from comparative perspective developments in other jurisdiction which are relevant in furtherance of legal scholarship in Nigeria. The Editorial Board and crew are made up of established scholars and seasoned practitioners. We are pleased to present a call for submission of articles on the theme: Information and Communication Technology (ICT) and Internet Law.

The society is experiencing rapid development in ICT and the promotion of social media platforms through the internet. The revolution brought about by the developments made in ICT and the internet requires that attention must be placed in the field to ensure that ICT does not constitute a curse to the society, but a blessing that will rejuvenate the economy and bring about optimal development for the good of mankind. Many activities are carried out on the internet by citizens, nongovernmental organisations, governmental institutions and officials and business enterprises. On-line content and software providers are offering different ranges of products. The law will need to be utilised continuously and reformed to keep it in tune with these dynamics. The Miyetti Quarterly Law Review is bringing this call for papers to invite articles that robustly address but are not limited the following sub-themes:

- The legal profession and the use of ICT
- Interconnection regulation
- ICT and the Nigerian courts
- E-government and the law
- New media and the law
- Mobile telephony and the law
- Legal issues in e-commerce
- Admissibility of electronically generated evidence from the internet
- Human rights aspects of access to the internet
- Socio-legal issues in the use of the internet media
- The social media and the law
- Internet defamation
- Privacy rights and the internet
- Jurisdictional issues in adjudication of e-commerce
- Cybersecurity and national security
- Online dispute resolution

The Miyetti Quarterly Law Review hereby invites contributions on legal issues arising from the above themes, which are nevertheless not exhaustive. Articles should be sent as a word document to editor@miyettiquarterlylawreview.com on or before 30th January 2018.

Contributors should ensure that their articles are well edited in clear language and must conform to the submission guidelines. Only well edited articles conforming to the guidelines attached will be considered for peer review.

Please note that every article submitted to Miyetti Research and Publications will be put through a PLAGIARISM check.
